We're very happy you could visit the refuge today. It is one of more than 300 refuges managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to furnish wildlife with suitable homes or habitat. The refuge program was begun in the early 1900's and was expanded rapidly following passage of the "Duck Stamp Act" in 1934. During the 1930's, a long drouth and the drainage of wetlands caused waterfowl numbers to drop to alarmingly low levels. To aid waterfowl, many hunters and other people supported passage of the "Duck Stamp Act" which would require hunters to purchase a "duck stamp" each year they desire to hunt waterfowl. Money collected from the sale of these stamps has been used to purchase many National Wildlife Refuges for both hunters and nonhunters to enjoy.
