Waterfowl Production Areas

Public Use Regulations

Welcome

This goose, designed by J.N. "Ding" Darling, is the symbol of the National Wildlife Refuge System.

Waterfowl Production Areas (WPAs) are part of the National Wildlife Refuge System, a network of lands managed to conserve fish and wildlife and their habitat for the continuing benefit of the American people.

WPAs are lands purchased by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service with funds generated from the sale of Federal Duck Stamps.

Wetland Management Districts (WMDs) were formed to manage WPAs. Established to protect and restore waterfowl habitat, nearly 95 percent of WPAs in the United States are located in the Prairie Pothole Region of North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana, and Iowa.

The existing WPA boundary signs (1) will be replaced in the near future with a sign (2) that will feature the image of the green goose.
