

Natchez Trace Parkway

NPS Photo

Living and Dying Enslaved

Mount Locust became a thriving cotton plantation by the 1840s, and about 50 enslaved people lived in the cabins that once stood on the property. In the nearby slave cemetery, a single headstone marks the area where these individuals are buried.

To learn more, visit: www.nps.gov/natr

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE