National Park Service.

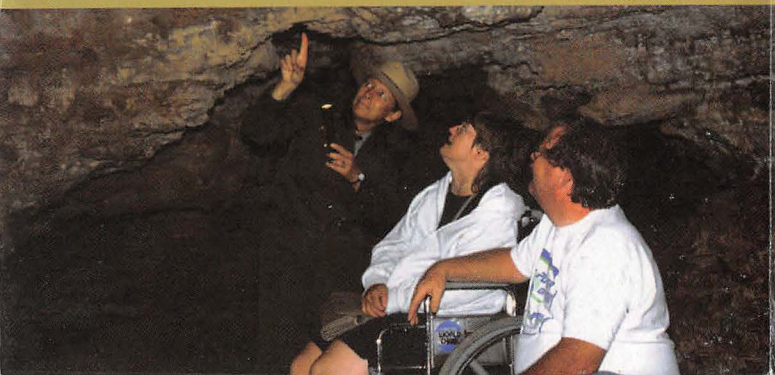

Experience the Stories of Us!

America's people entrust the National Park Service with the care of national parks. More than 20,000 employees work with thousands of volunteer park partners from all walks of life to protect and preserve nearly 400 places from Maine to American Samoa, Alaska to the Virgin Islands, for more than 280 million visitors every year.

We maintain national parks, monuments, battlefields, military parks, historical parks, historic sites, lakeshores, seashores, recreation areas, scenic rivers and trails and even the White House!

Our work doesn't stop there. We work with tribes, local government, nonprofit organizations, businesses and individual citizens seeking help in revitalizing communities, preserving local history, celebrating local heritage and creating close-to-home opportunities for anyone looking to learn and have fun.

"Taking care of our national parks and helping Americans take care of their communities is a job we love..."

Our natural, cultural and recreational national parks tell our collective story. Places like the Grand Canyon display breathtaking natural beauty. Places like Mesa Verde National Park protect elements of ancient native cultures. The Revolutionary and Civil Wars are chronicled on the sites of battles fought. These and other historic places tell where ordinary people did extraordinary things.

People visit parks to experience America's story and to marvel at her wonders and to have fun. Parks offer programs like Junior Rangers that make you a part of our work and ensure that these places will be available for future generations. Whatever your interests, there is a national park waiting for you to explore!

Almost any career you choose exists in the National Park Service. From archaeology, community planning and education to financial management, law enforcement, or information technology; there are opportunities for anyone seeking a fulfilling career preserving America's most precious resources!
