DESCRIPTION

THE CARETAKER'S CABIN, CEDAR BREAKS NATIONAL MONUMENT, IS LOCATED OFF RIM ROAD IN THE SOUTHEAST CORNER OF THE MONUMENT. THE CABIN IS SURROUNDED BY PINE, FIR, ENGELMANN SPRUCE, AND SUBALPINE WILDFLOWERS.

Built in 1937 as a Civilian Conservation Corps project, the one story, two room, L-plan building has 700 square feet with a 102 square foot covered porch. The log constructed building is on a stone masonry foundation. The walls are brown painted peeled log with saddlenotched corners and buttressed log crowning. A battered stone masonry chimney is on one end; another stone masonry chimney is on the opposite end of the cabin. The wood shingled gable roof has exposed peeled log rafter ends and purlins.' The inset covered porch has a stone floor. The windows are double hung, four light casement. Originally the cabin had board and batten shutters. The interior spaces were altered and the living room fireplace was sealed in 1954. These changes have not lessened the integrity of the building in conveying the expression of architectural design and construction technology. The building retains the essential features of the 1930's. The building is on its original location; it is in fair condition. The building is used for seasonal housing.

The survey of the Caretaker's Cabin was completed by Lance Olivierri, a consultant on historic properties, and under the supervision of Supervisory Historical Architect, Rodd L. Wheaton during March 1978. Mr. Olivierri used the criteria established by the National Register of Historic Places for his evaluations and the structure was entered on the Rocky Mountain Regional Office List of Classified Structures Inventory.
