Safety First

In the green box below, put a check next to each safety rule you followed during your visit to Bryce Canyon. Then . . .

Do not feed or try to touch any wild animals. They may bite you, and human food is not healthy for wildlife.
Take nothing but pictures; leave nothing but footprints.
Always hike and explore with an adult — don’t go off by yourself.
Always wear hiking boots on park trails — never sandals or “street” shoes.
Stay on trails and behind guardrails for your protection. Never shortcut on trails!
Stay indoors and away from the canyon rim during thunderstorms. Don’t stand under trees — just look at all the trees that have been struck by lightning!
Drink plenty of water, even if you don’t feel thirsty.
Don’t throw rocks into the canyon — you may injure animals or hikers below you.
Can you think of any other rule which would make your visit even more safe? Write it below.

Nature’s Songs
Try to find a quiet spot on the trail that is away from other people. Close your eyes and listen to what is around you.

Can you name two natural things that make sound?
1) __________________________
2) __________________________

Nature’s Smells
All over the park you will see Ponderosa Pine trees. Walk up to the tree, look up at the tree trunk and notice that the bark looks like it’s made of jigsaw puzzle pieces. Put your nose up close to the tree trunk and sniff deeply.

What does it smell like to you?

Nature’s Colors
Take a look at all the different colors that surround you.

Name four colors you see.

2) __________________________
3) __________________________
4) __________________________

Now pick a color you are wearing and try to find it in the landscape around you.

What color did you choose?

Where in your surroundings did you find it?

Nature’s Textures
As you walk around, look for different textures in the park. Find three different things with different textures. Write what the different objects are and describe what they feel like (soft, hard, rough, smooth, fuzzy, prickly, etc.)
