The word ‘battlefield’ evokes images of two mighty armies seeking to engage each other. Two sites of Nez Perce National Historical Park, Big Hole National Battlefield and the Bear Paw Battlefield, are labeled as battlefields, but could they be something more?

In each case the Nez Perce people (who call themselves Nimiipuu) were not an army but rather groups of families who were forced to flee their homelands as refugees. The Nimiipuu people in these conflicts were mothers and fathers, sisters and brothers, children and elders. Each location was not a predetermined place and time but rather a place where the U.S. Army happened upon Nez Perce bands.

The events of Big Hole and Bear Paw did not often play out in the way we typically think of as ‘battles’. Each started with a surprise assault on an unprotected group of families. Each event resulted in the heavy loss of life on both sides. At Big Hole the U.S. Army failed in their attempt to stop the Nez Perce, but with the loss of many Nimiipuu lives. Today we call these ‘non-combatant’ deaths. To the Nez Perce they were mothers, sons, daughters, grandmothers and grandfathers, aunts and uncles. At Bear Paw the Nez Perce fought the Army to a standstill, despite having very little protection from bullets, cannon, and a heavy snowfall. Only after a five-day siege did the Nimiipuu agree to end the fighting. There were no clear winners during the fighting of 1877.

The history of these events, the inspiring landscapes, and the spirituality of Bear Paw and Big Hole Battlefields are why the National Park Service preserves such special places for this and future generations. Core to our mission is to educate all about the conflict of that 1877 summer. We may debate the meaning of the word ‘battlefield’ but it is easy to understand why such places should be preserved forever.
1877 Sites

Nez Perce National Historical Park includes a number of sites that mark important events related to the war of 1877. Some of the sites that associated with Nez Perce National Historical Park are listed below.

Spalding Visitor Center

Ranger programs on Nez Perce history and culture are featured here as well as exhibits, a film, and bookstore. Information on sites related to 1877 and other park sites associated with the story of the Nimiipuu.

Directions: The visitor center is located ten miles east of Lewiston on US Hwy. 95.

White Bird Battlefield

White Bird battlefield marks the site of the first battle of the war. On the morning of June 17, 1877 soldiers of the First Cavalry Regiment accompanied by a handful of civilian volunteers clashed with the Nimiipuu. In a battle that lasted through the morning, the Nez Perce defeated the cavalry, who leaving sixty troopers dead; the Nimiipuu had successfully protected their camp with only three slightly wounded warriors. Directions: The battlefield is located fifteen miles south of Grangeville on Hwy 95. A hiking trail is accessible two miles north of the town of Whitebird.

Lolo Trail and Pass

Visitors can retrace the route that the Nimiipuu took over the Bitterroot Mountains in 1877 on U.S. Highway 12 or on a primitive dirt road known as the Lolo Motorway (Forest Road 500). A rest area and visitor center are located at Lolo Pass. The rest area is open twenty-four hours a day. The visitor center is open seven days a week from mid-May through mid-September from 8:30 am to 5:30 pm (PDT). Call (208) 942-1234 for more information.

Big Hole National Battlefield

Early in the morning of August 9, 1877, soldiers under the command of Colonel John Gibbon attacked the encampment at Big Hole. Gibbon's attack killed upwards of ninety men, women and children. Despite the carnage, the Nimiipuu rallied, trapping Gibbon's men for 24 hours and allowing the families to escape. Directions: Big Hole National Battlefield is located ten miles west of Wisdom, Montana on state highway 43.

Bear Paw Battlefield

On September 30, 1877, the U.S. Army attacked and besieged the Nimiipuu camp on Snake Creek. After five days of fighting in atrocious weather, Chief Joseph brought hostilities to end, forty miles short of the Canadian border. Some escaped to Canada under White Bird, many remained and were sent into exile to Oklahoma. Directions: The battlefield is located located 15 miles south of Chinook, MT on Highway 240.

Idaho

Confluence Overlook
Donald MacKenzie established a trading post near the confluence of the Clearwater River in September 1812. The Nez Perce were not interested in the fur trade and MacKenzie sold out to the British.

Coyote’s Fishnet
Coyote and Black Bear got into an argument. In frustration, Coyote threw his fishing net on a hill and tossed Black Bear on another, turning him into stone. Both features are visible today.

Ant and Yellowjacket
Ant and Yellowjacket were arguing over who had the right to fish for Salmon when they got into an argument. Coyote asked them to stop. They continued to fight, whereby Coyote turned them into a stone arch that is visible today.

Spalding
The Spalding site has seen many uses by the Nez Perce and was the location of Henry and Eliza Spalding’s mission. The park’s visitor center and museum is located here as well. Nearby is where the Spalding’s first settled in 1836.

Northern Idaho Indian Agency
As part of the treaty process, the U.S. Government set up an agency to oversee the implementation of the terms of the treaties.

Fort Lapwai
In 1862, a detachment of volunteers chose this location for their fort. The 1883 officers’ quarters at the southwest end of the parade ground is one of the few original buildings to have survived.

Craig Donation Land Claim
This is the site of the claim by the first Euro-American settler in Idaho. William Craig was a mountain man, an interpreter, and friend of the Nez Perce.

St. Joseph’s Mission
This was the first Roman Catholic mission among the Nez Perce. It was dedicated in Sept. 1874 by Father Joseph Cataldo, who had built it. The church and grounds are currently closed.

Cottonwood Skirmishes
Skirmishes with the U.S. Army and volunteers occurred near here on July 3 and 5, 1877.

Weis Rockshelter
More than 8,000 years ago humans first made this home and continuously inhabited the area until about 600 years ago.

Camas Prairie
Where wheat fields stretch to the horizon today, camas once grew. Camas bulbs were a major food source for the Nez Perce. They gathered here in late summer and early fall to dig them.

Tolo Lake
In 1877, the non-treaty bands congregated at this ancient council site, known as Tepahlewam, before moving onto the reservation. Frustrated by injustices against the Nez Perce, three Nez Perce warriors raided homesteads on the Salmon River from this site.

White Bird Battlefield
On June 17, 1877, the first battle of the Nez Perce War was fought here. The U.S. cavalry was defeated with heavy losses and the Nez Perce began their long journey to find safety and sanctuary. A self-guided walking tour of the battlefield is available at the trailhead.
In April 1839, Rev. and Mrs. Asa Smith established a mission in the Kamiah area. Unsuiting to the demands of such work, the Smiths left in 1841.

Asa Smith Mission

This is the location of the Heart of the Monster, where Coyote defeated a monster and, in turn, created the Nez Perce people. Audio stations tell the story in English and in the Nez Perce languages.

Heart of the Monster

In the early fall of 1805, the Lewis and Clark expedition rested here and built canoes of hollowed-out logs for the final leg of their trip to the Pacific Ocean.

Canoe Camp

In the spring of 1806 for the reservation in Idaho. Located in Hell's Canyon National Recreation Area, the site is accessible by either boat or a high clearance vehicle.

Musselshell Meadow

In 1805 and 1806. During the 1877 War the Nez Perce followed the Lolo Trail. For many generations, Nez Perce have come here to dig for clams.

Weippe Prairie

This was a root-gathering place for the Nez Perce and it was located near an important eel fishery.

Hasotino

A site used until the end of the 19th century.

Territorial Court House

Financially unsuited to the demands of such work, the Smiths left in 1841.

Lolo Pass and Trail

This historic Nez Perce trail was used by Lewis and Clark in 1805 and 1806. During the 1877 War the Nez Perce followed the trail on into Montana. The U.S. Forest Service maintains a visitor center at Lolo Pass.

Clearwater Battlefield

On July 11, 1877, Gen. Oliver O. Howard crossed the Clearwater River and hoped to take the Nez Perce by surprise. His hopes came to naught and the fighting ended with the Nez Perce withdrawing.

Bear Paw Battlefield

Just 40 miles short of the Canadian border, the Nez Perce were besieged by the Army. With losses mounting, Joseph gave his rifle to General Howard, ending the siege on October 5, 1877. They had traveled 1,170 miles in the nearly four months since the first skirmishes.

Oregon

At this traditional crossing of the Snake River, Joseph and his band crossed in May, 1877 as they left their homes in Oregon. They had traveled 1,170 miles in the nearly four months since the first skirmishes.

Big Hole National Battlefield

On the morning of August 9, 1877, U.S. troops surprised the Nez Perce who crossed the Bitterroots trying to evade capture. Between 60 and 90 Nez Perce men, women, and children were killed. The Army lost 29 soldiers and 40 wounded.

Montana

In September 1860, gold was found on the Nez Perce reservation, triggering another treaty that reduced the size of the reservation. The other site of interest is the old Shoshone reservation.

Lenore

For thousands of years, this village site was used by the Nez Perce and their ancestors. Nez Perce Campsites at Nespelem were summer homes and were the last places where Joseph lived. In 1885 Chief Joseph and his band were allowed to return to the Northwest from Indian Territory in Oklahoma. Joseph spent his remaining years on the Colville Reservation and died here in 1904. The cemetery is private property and a sacred place.

Nez Perce Campsites at Nespelem

Chief Joseph's band continued their way of life while living on the Colville Reservation. These were their winter and summer homes and were the last places where Joseph lived.

Nez Perce (Nee-Me-Poo) National Historic Trail

In 1986, Congress established the Nez Perce (Nee-Me-Poo) National Historic Trail to commemorate the 1877 War. The trail begins at Wallowa Lake in Oregon and extends 1,170 miles to the Bear Paw Battlefield in Montana. The trail is managed by the U.S. Forest Service in cooperation with other partners, including the National Park Service. Further information on sites to see and special events along the trail can be found on the web at www.fs.fed.us/npnht/.

Lostine Campsite

At the junction of the Lostine and Wallowa Rivers is a traditional Nez Perce summer campsite where Old Chief Joseph died in 1871. This landscape has changed little from the days before the area was settled. Not a developed site.

Old Chief Joseph's Gravesite

The remains of the elder Chief Joseph were reburied here in 1926. Nearby are the graves of other Nez Perce and some settlers.

Dug Bar

At this traditional crossing of the Snake River, Joseph and his band crossed in May, 1877 as they left their homes in Oregon to the Bear Paw Battlefield in Montana. The U.S. Forest Service maintains a visitor center at Lolo Pass.

Looking Glass' 1877 Campsite

Looking Glass regarded this as treachery and joined the non-treaty Nez Perce. The Army attacked the village. Looking Glass regarded this as treachery and joined the others against the Army.

Camas Meadow Battle Site

After the tragedy at Big Hole, the Nez Perce gained time by stealing more than 200 of the Army's pack mules and horses, halting their advance.

Coyote defeated a monster and, in turn, created the Nez Perce people. Audio stations tell the story in English and in the Nez Perce languages.

Looking Glass

A site used until the end of the 19th century and was located near an important eel fishery.

Canyon Creek

After emerging from Yellowstone National Park, the Nez Perce were pursued by the cavalry. In a rearguard action the Nez Perce were able to gain time by successfully stopping the pursuing troops.

Joseph Canyon Viewpoint

The canyon seen from the overlook was one of the winter homes of the Nez Perce. Tradition holds that Chief Joseph was born in a cave along the east bank of the creek. Restrooms are available.

Dug Bar

At this traditional crossing of the Snake River, Joseph and his band crossed in May, 1877 as they left their homes in Oregon to the Bear Paw Battlefield in Montana. The U.S. Forest Service maintains a visitor center at Lolo Pass.

Looking Glass’ 1877 Campsite

Looking Glass regarded this as treachery and joined the others against the Army.

Buffalo Eddy

The unique petroglyphs of this area are evidence of the longevity of the Nez Perce occupation of the area. Defacing federal archeological sites is a criminal offense.

Hasotino

A site used until the end of the 19th century and was located near an important eel fishery.
