Dear General Opie:

In reply to your letter of the seventh and your telegram of the fourteenth, I can understand Mr. Hoover's viewpoint. In all probability he is quite right about it.

I have always been a great admirer of Woodrow Wilson. When the Democratic Convention of 1912 was in session at Baltimore, I was cutting wheat in a one hundred and sixty acre field on the old farm in Grandview. Every time I came to the corner closest to the Frisco Railroad's tiny telegraph station, I got all the information I could on affairs in Baltimore.

Although both my father and I thought very highly of Champ Clark, we always thought that William Jennings Bryan did the country a magnificent service in bringing about Woodrow Wilson's nomination at that convention.

I am pleased indeed that your efforts are being directed towards giving Woodrow Wilson his proper place among our five or six greatest Presidents.

Sincerely yours,

Harry Truman
