Protect & Preserve

Church Inspection, Maintenance, and Repair

Las Misiones supports the preservation of four Spanish colonial mission churches: Mission Concepción, San José, San Juan, and Espada.

These four iconic structures are internationally significant resources within San Antonio Missions World Heritage Site. Today, all four mission churches continue to have active and lively parishes, and draw visitors from all over the world.

Every year Las Misiones performs detailed building inspections, preventative maintenance, and routine repairs on each mission church. Extensive repairs to the Mission San José roof and tower began in 2022, and will be completed by Summer 2023.

Mission Descendant "Ofrendas" for Día de los Muertos

In October of 2022, San Antonio Missions National Historical Park hosted its annual ofrenda exhibit in the granary of Mission San José. During the week prior to Día de los Muertos, families from the mission descendant community built and displayed ofrendas honoring the lives and stories of their ancestors.

The annual ofrenda exhibit is an important way the park helps to protect and preserve these important and intangible stories for future generations.

Texas State Historical Marker Recognizing the Pajalate Indigenous Language

The Bexar County Historical Commission, through the Texas Historical Commission Undertold Marker Program, is currently working with the Old River Heritage Group to establish a Texas state historical marker that recognizes the Pajalate language.

Pajalate was spoken in the San Antonio area before European arrival and was documented by Spanish missionaries in the 18th century. Pajalte is the only surviving Indigenous language among many that were spoken by Coahuiltecan and others prior to the mission period.

This marker will be located on land at Padre County Park in the San José buffer zone, and will help preserve the story of this language.

Preservation and Archaeology at the Alamo

The preservation of the Alamo represents an important legacy of the Alamo Trust. In the spring of 2022, the west façade of the Alamo church was inspected by the Alamo Trust Conservator following notes from the previous year. Multiple locations were identified and compiled in a report.

The Long Barrack opened the first archaeology exhibit on the Alamo Complex. The exhibit identifies the mission era walls and all the living surfaces which came later. The mission era plaster fragments were stabilized by applying edge stabilization to the fragile edges of the plaster. The plaster surface was gently cleaned with distilled water and consolidated with a water base consolidate. The purpose of the stabilization and application of the consolidate is to keep the mission era surfaces intact. These surfaces are inspected every six months.

The 1719 era Long Barrack Wall is the oldest stone structure in Texas. The wall required stainless steel grouted ties for stability and preservation purposes. This project was completed in August 2022.

Youth in Preservation

A “Youth in Preservation” effort was funded and in the second year of a multi-year Task Agreement in 2022. Crews assisted with deferred maintenance in the cultural landscapes of San Antonio Missions National Historical Park. This work is valued at over $300,000.

The Cultural Landscape Apprentice Program, in partnership with the Texas Conservation Corps and American Youthworks and supported by Mission Heritage Partners and the National Park Foundation, contributed 2,700 hours of landscape preservation labor.

The park hired two members of the crew at the completion of their service into paid National Park Service staff positions.

Rehabilitation of Structure at Mission San José

Project scoping and condition assessment has been completed for the rehabilitation of the National Register Harris House structure at Mission San José. Funding in excess of $800,000 has been secured for the rehabilitation work.

Library and Archives Intern

Mission Heritage Partners funded Library and Archives intern Zachary Wooston to work at San Antonio Missions National Historical Park in 2022.

Zach began work at the park in February while earning his master's degree in Library Science. Zach's objective walking into his position was to organize decades of records into a functioning library for internal use and external research. Zach created a system for documenting, cataloging, and sharing projects and activities at San Antonio Missions National Historical Park.

Masonry Preservation

Two masonry apprentices funded by the National Park Service Historic Preservation Training Center under the Traditional Trades Apprenticeship Program (TTAP). These apprentices contributed 1,800 labor hours toward masonry preservation. Additionally, one masonry apprentice funded by the Mission Heritage Partners completed an internship with park masons. This apprentice contributed 900 labor hours toward masonry preservation of the mission sites.

Two of these three masonry apprentices accepted paid National Park Service masonry positions following completion of their apprenticeships.

Weddings, Quinceañeras, Baptisms, Funerals, and Other Spiritual Ceremonies

The Archdiocese of San Antonio continues the Catholic traditions of the missions with the celebration of weddings, quinceaneras, baptisms, and funerals.

In June, the Feast of Corpus Christi was celebrated at Mission San José with a special outdoor Mass celebrated by Archbishop Gustavo García-Siller M.Sp.S., and Eucharistic Procession around the Plaza. Over 300 people attended from all over the Archdiocese for this special event that was a tradition at the colonial mission churches.

In November, Mission Concepción held a Mass in honor of those lives lost in Uvalde during the feast day of All Saints.

In 2022, the Archdiocese of San Antonio received remains that had been excavated from Missions San Juan, San José, and Concepción over several decades. Alamo Tours, Living History, Collections, and Exhibitions

2022 witnessed the full energy of the Alamo Master Plan take physical form. The lion's share of construction on the Exhibition Hall & Collections Building got underway and saw the project poised for completion on target for March 2023. This facility will house collections that will enhance and broaden the interpretation of the Alamo and the community at large. This is just the first step in maintaining the Alamo's role as a leader and innovator in preservation, interpretation, and education.

The Living History Department at the Alamo saw continued growth in both the number of costumed interpreters but also expansion in the historical eras and perspectives represented. While the focus is the Texas Revolution, interpretation of the mission era has been enhanced with the inclusion of Spanish Presidio Soldados. The timeline was also moved forward to the US military use of the Alamo and a special living history day to support the kick-off the 2022 San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo. Costumed interpreters represented 1870's era cowboys to help visitors understand life on the range. 19th century games, cooking, branding, and life on the cattle trail were all represented.

Regularly scheduled daily tours were available 364 days in 2022. This, along side audio tours, living history presentations, and special events helped nearly 1.5 million visitors understand our complex and dynamic story.
