
Historic Camden Foundation Restoring Camden Battlefield to 18th Century-era Roots

Our first priority is the preservation of the battleground's archaeological remnants and history as hallowed ground, honoring those who fought and died at the Battle of Camden

Reforestation of the Longleaf Pine Forest

The return of these native conifers, which once dominated the area, is part of a larger regional movement to help provide the necessary native habitat for many threatened and endangered species.

Historic Camden Revolutionary War Site

opened its doors in 1970. Today the museum includes 100+ acres of the original town site, five historic buildings and reconstructions of some of the military fortifications and the Joseph Kershaw House, which served as British headquarters during the occupation of 1780- 1781.

Since 1982, the museum has been designated an affiliated area of the National Park Service. It is governed by the Historic Camden Foundation, a private non-profit organization dedicated to the preservation, education and celebration of Camden Colonial and Revolutionary War era history.
