National Wildlife Refuge Waterfowl Hunting Regulations 2025–2026

Welcome

The Texas Point NWR has one large hunting unit. We ask that hunters be good sportsmen and respect the rights of other hunters afield. Sky-blasting flares game, leaves cripples, and disrupts other hunters. Allowing birds to decoy increases your hunting success. Hunting of ducks, geese and coots ONLY permitted in accordance with all federal, state, and local laws; in addition to refuge specific hunting regulations outlined in this hunting brochure below. NOTE: Opening of the hunting unit can change based on weather, marsh conditions, or safety concerns. Emergency changes to regulations will be posted on the Texas Point NWR webpage (www.fws.gov/refuge/texas-point).

Failure to abide by or excessive violations of these refuge specific hunting regulations, federal regulations or state laws may result in revocation of your hunting privileges by the refuge manager. The regulations listed are a supplement to the general regulations set forth in Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations which govern all activities on National Wildlife Refuges.
