

JUMPING SPIDER

(Phidippus audax)

JUMPING SPIDER

Habitat: Grasslands, prairies, agricultural lands, and open woodlands across the U.S., including Rocky Mountain National Park and Acadia.

Weight: Males average 6-13 mm long (females are slightly larger)

Diet: Carnivorous; they tend to eat almost any insect that they can catch.

Fun Fact: These spiders have some of the best vision out of all the arthropods—and they have 8 eyes!
