EXPERIENCE A SCENIC GLEN CANYON/ COLORADO RIVER FLOAT TRIP

Glen Canyon National Recreation Area

Wilderness River Adventures' Colorado River float trip through Glen Canyon is an extraordinary introduction to the breathtaking beauty, wonders and excitement of the Grand Canyon region.

There are no whitewater rapids to contend with on this trip. Instead, you'll float leisurely past the multi-colored sandstone cliffs of Glen Canyon and explore ancient Anasazi petroglyphs. Your experienced guide provides historical facts and river lore and answers questions. The 15-mile journey starts at the base of Glen Canyon Dam and concludes at historic Lees Ferry.

We suggest casual clothing in "layers," tennis shoes and a brimmed hat for sunny days. And don't forget your camera—you'll want to capture all the beautiful memories you find along the way.

Trips leave twice daily from the Wilderness River Adventures office in Page, 50 S. Lake Powell Blvd., and include transportation to launch site and return from Lees Ferry. Transportation is available from Wahweap Lodge to Page.
