

Sweet Auburn to Montgomery 1929–1959

Martin Luther King Jr. grew up in Atlanta, Georgia, surrounded by his close-knit family. Neighbors were prosperous working people. Life for the Kings revolved around Ebenezer Baptist Church, where Martin's father and maternal grandfather preached. Ordinary as his childhood was, it played out against the backdrop of the segregated South. Young Martin grew increasingly aware of words and actions—in Sweet Auburn as in other African American communities—that would become the modern civil rights movement.

The roots of Dr. King's lifelong fight for equality are here at Martin Luther King, Jr. National Historical Park. The house where Dr. King was born still stands, along with the surrounding neighborhood, Ebenezer Baptist Church, and many more places from his youth. In preserving this setting, the site honors the man and those who live the legacy.

Left, from top: Dr. King, 1960s; handwritten text for Nobel Peace Prize acceptance speech; Selma to Montgomery march, 1965. Right, clockwise from top: Young Martin and family; at Ebenezer; arrested in Montgomery, AL, 1958; outside SCLC headquarters; first book published; wedding day.

PHOTOGRAPH BY FLIP SCHULKE / BLACK STAR. SPEECH—THE KING CENTER. MARCH—AP / WIDE WORLD PHOTOS.

1929

Born January 15 at home of maternal grandparents, 501 Auburn Avenue. Above, standing: Alberta Williams King (mother), Martin Luther "Daddy" King Sr. (father), Jennie Williams (maternal grandmother); seated: A. D. (brother), Christine (sister), Martin Jr.

1951

Earns BD from Crozer. Begins PhD in theology at Boston University. Meets Coretta Scott, a student at New England Conservatory of Music.

1954

US Supreme Court rules school segregation is unconstitutional in Brown v. Board of Education. Dr. King becomes pastor at Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, AL.

1958

Stride Toward Freedom published, the first of Dr. King's four books.

1955

Earns PhD in systematic theology from Boston University. Rosa Parks arrested December 1 for violating Montgomery bus segregation ordinance. Dr. King and others initiate bus boycott. Dr. King receives national attention as a civil rights leader.

1953

Marries Coretta Scott June 18 at her parents' home in Marion, AL.

1956

US Supreme Court ends segregation on public transportation. Montgomery buses integrated December 20, 1956, and boycott ends after 381 days.

1957

Becomes founding president of Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). Appears on Time magazine cover. Congress passes first civil rights act since Reconstruction.

1959

As guests of Prime Minister Nehru, Dr. and Mrs. King travel to India to study the nonviolent teachings of Mahatma Gandhi. Back in the US, while autographing his book in Harlem, New York City, Dr. King is stabbed in the chest and seriously wounded.

Back Home—and Beyond 1960–1968

In the twelve or so years that Martin Luther King Jr. led the American Civil Rights Movement, African Americans made more progress toward equality than in the previous three centuries. Dr. King credited this success to the courageous men, women, and children he led and to the philosophy of nonviolence he learned from the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth, Mahatma Gandhi, and others. Perhaps most widely celebrated for his powerful "I Have a Dream" speech, Dr. King was also a brilliant strategist in organizing nonviolent protests and a tireless soldier marching side by side with others in the movement.

In 1964 he became the youngest person at the time to receive the Nobel Peace Prize. In January 1986 the world celebrated the first National King Holiday, in his honor. Dr. King earned his place in history with his dream of equality for African Americans, but his ultimate dream was for human rights worldwide.

1960

King family moves to Atlanta. Dr. King becomes co-pastor of Ebenezer with Daddy King. Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) is formed in Raleigh, NC, to coordinate student protests. First lunch counter sit-ins occur in Greensboro, NC. Dr. King arrested at Atlanta sit-in.

1962

Dr. King arrested at a prayer vigil in Albany, GA. Sentenced to 45 days in jail, served three days, then ordered to leave town. "For the first time," he said, "we witnessed being kicked out of jail." James Meredith is first black student to enroll at University of Mississippi.

1965

Malcolm X assassinated in Harlem. SNCC, SCLC, and other protesters beaten during Selma to Montgomery voting rights march in Alabama. Under federal protection Dr. King and 25,000 marchers finally reach state capital. President Johnson signs 1965 Voting Rights Act.

1968

March 28 Leads 6,000 protesters through Memphis in support of striking sanitation workers; march turns violent. April 3 Final speech, "I've Been to the Mountain Top." April 4 Fatally shot in Memphis. April 9 Buried in Atlanta.

1969–Present

Coretta Scott King and supporters establish the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Center in Atlanta, later the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Nonviolent Social Change, Inc. Presidential Medal of Freedom awarded posthumously, 1977. Martin Luther King, Jr. National Historic Site established in 1980 and redesignated as a National Historical Park in January 2018. Mrs. Coretta Scott King dies in 2006 and is entombed next to her husband.

1966

Campaigns in Chicago for equality in education and housing; leads march through crowds of angry whites on city's south side. James Meredith shot and wounded in Memphis, TN, during his solitary March Against Fear. Dr. King and others continue the march in Meredith's honor.

1967

Delivers first public antiwar speech, "Beyond Vietnam," at Riverside Church in New York City. Launches SCLC's Poor People's Campaign. Where Do We Go From Here is published.

1961

Dr. King and other protesters arrested in Albany, GA. Congress for Racial Equality (CORE) organizes Freedom Riders to nonviolently protest interstate bus segregation.

Left: King Birth Home, 501 Auburn Avenue. Right, clockwise from top: Dr. King at Ebenezer with Daddy King in background; 1963 March on Washington; the Kings with children Bernice, Dexter, Martin Luther III, and Yolanda; marble tombs; Nobel medal; Dr. King's suitcase from final Memphis trip.

HOUSE, SUITCASE, MEDAL, AND TOMBS—AP / GARY TARTLETON

Everybody can be great because everybody can serve. You don't have to have a college degree to serve. . . . You don't have to know Einstein's theory of relativity to serve. . . . You only need a heart full of grace, a soul generated by love. And you can be that servant.

Martin Luther King Jr., "The Drum Major Instinct" sermon at Ebenezer Baptist Church, February 4, 1968

Plan Your Visit

Martin Luther King, Jr. National Historical Park was established in 1980 to preserve the places where Martin Luther King Jr. was born, lived, worked, worshipped, and is buried. The park is open daily except Thanksgiving, December 25, and January 1. There is no entrance fee.

Self-guiding facilities are open 9 am to 5 pm, including the visitor center, Historic Ebenezer Baptist Church, The King Center's Freedom Hall, and Historic Fire Station No. 6. These points of interest have films, exhibits, artifacts, and resource materials.

You may visit the gravesite (Reflecting Pool) of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. anytime.

The King Birth Home is a guided facility. Ranger-led tours are scheduled between 10 am and 4 pm, first-come, first-served. Each tour is limited to an average of 15 persons, so register early at the visitor center. Guided open house tours are offered at special times, depending on staff availability.

ALL IMAGES—NPS / GARY TARLETON

Ebenezer Baptist Church, Heritage Sanctuary
Built 1914–22, Ebenezer (above) was the center of spiritual and community life for the Williams-King family. "The church has always been a second home for me," Dr. King wrote. For nearly 80 years Martin's maternal grandfather Rev. Adam Daniel "A. D." Williams and father Rev. Martin Luther "Daddy" King Sr. served as pastors. Dr. King's grandmother Jennie C. Williams and mother Alberta "Mama" King diligently led various church activities.

In the 1960s Dr. King served as co-pastor with Daddy King. After Dr. King was assassinated, his brother A. D. King was co-pastor until his sudden death in 1969. In 1974 a gunman fatally shot Mama King and Deacon Edward Boykin and wounded three others in the sanctuary.

The Heritage Sanctuary (below) and Fellowship Hall are restored to their 1960s appearance.

The King Center
Freedom Hall has exhibits and a gift shop/resource center on the first floor. Upstairs are biographical exhibits on Dr. King (pastoral robe and sash below) and Coretta Scott King, Rosa Parks, and Mahatma Gandhi.

The Reflecting Pool surrounds the tombs of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. The Eternal Flame serves as a reminder of the Kings' undying commitment to their beloved community.

Historic Fire Station No. 6
Built in 1894 in Romanesque Revival style, the fire station stood guard over the city for nearly 100 years. In the 1960s it became one of Atlanta's first racially integrated firehouses. It closed in 1991.

The exterior (below) is restored to its appearance in the 1930s–40s. The interior has exhibits on fire-fighting history, including a 1927 LaFrance fire engine.

King Birth Home
Martin Luther King Jr. was born in an upstairs bedroom (below) on January 15, 1929. Young "M. L." lived in this home with his parents, maternal grandparents, sister, brother, uncle, and great aunt for his first twelve years.

In 1941 Daddy King and Mama King purchased a brick home on Boulevard. The Auburn Avenue home was then converted into a rental property and has since been restored to the 1930s–40s, M. L.'s early years.

Historic Residential Area
The residential neighborhood surrounding the King Birth Home is still an active community. Many of the late 1800s and early 1900s homes (below right) are restored and used as park offices or private residences. Wayside exhibits give some history of the Sweet Auburn community.

Books and gifts are available for sale at the Eastern National Bookstore and Museum Shop at 497 Auburn Avenue, next to the Birth Home.

For a Safe Park Visit
Park in designated visitor parking, 423 John Wesley Dobbs Avenue (see map). • Secure your vehicle and personal belongings • Points of interest are in close proximity of each other, and most are wheelchair-accessible. • Use established crosswalks at intersections. • Service animals are welcome in the park. • Solicitation (panhandling) is prohibited. • Firearms are prohibited in park buildings. • Report unsafe or suspicious activity to a park ranger or call 911. • Many structures are private and are closed to the public.

Martin Luther King, Jr. National Historical Park is one of over 400 parks in the National Park System. For more information, visit www.nps.gov.

Martin Luther King, Jr. National Historical Park 450 Auburn Ave., NE Atlanta, GA 30312 404-331-6922 www.nps.gov/malu

National Park Foundation. Join the park community. www.nationalparks.org

©GPO-2025—431-026/84262 Last updated 2019

