RECREATIONAL ACTIVITIES

BOATING — Lake Crescent, one of the most beautiful lakes in the country, is splendid for boating. There are Lodge rowboats for your convenience or your own boat may be launched at the nearby public boat ramp.

FISHING — The thrill and excitement of trout fishing is at its best in the rushing, glacier-fed streams and lakes. Salmon fishing is also popular in the Straits of Juan de Fuca and along the Pacific Coast. No fishing license is required in the park, but a state punch card for salmon and steelhead is required.

HIKING — Some 600 miles of trails lead through the dense forests and into the snow-clad mountains of Olympic National Park. There are unlimited photographic opportunities. The Marymere Falls Nature Trail leads from the Lodge to the nearby falls.

BEACHCOMBING is part of the fun of your Olympic vacation.

CLIMATE — Summers on the Olympic Peninsula are mild. Occasional rains do occur.

VISITING CANADA — Ferry Service and Airline Service are available from Port Angeles to Victoria, British Columbia. During peak season, contact ferry office for waiting time for departure

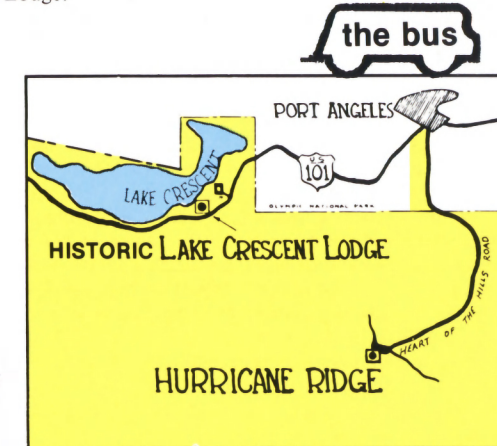

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE has jurisdiction over the Park which is administered by — Superintendent, Olympic National Park, Port Angeles, Washington. Entrance fees are charged in some areas of the Park.

Lake Crescent Lodge

OLYMPIC NATIONAL PARK, WASHINGTON

HISTORIC LAKE CRESCENT LODGE is nestled among giant fir and hemlock trees on the shore of the deepest and bluest jewel of the Olympics — Lake Crescent. From the Lodge, one can take short hikes to majestic Marymere Falls, expansive viewpoints on Mount Storm King or through adjacent old-growth forests. Staying at the Lodge, one experiences the charm and traditional hospitality of an historic turn of the century resort. Choose from one of the historic Lodge rooms or perhaps one of the fireplace cottages, built in 1937 for Franklin Roosevelt, when exploring and considering the Peninsula for a future National Park. Your choice of accommodations also includes modern motor lodges and comfortable cottages with superb views of the Olympic Mountains and Lake Crescent.

The elegance of yesteryear invites you to relax by the huge stone fireplace in the antique furnished lobby, originally known as "Singer's Tavern." Remember your visit with a gift from the outstanding and unique collection of Northwest Indian and Native Handicrafts. Relax at the end of the day with your favorite beverage in the lounge; and enjoy the splendor of a Lake Crescent sunset. The lakeside dining room offers a selection of Northwestern seafood and fine wines, matched only by the friendly service and hospitality.

Coffee Shop, and Indian
Craft and Gift Shop

HURRICANE RIDGE, only 17 miles from Port Angeles, is the only area of Olympic National Park where you can drive from sea level, through lowland, montane, and subalpine forests to reach the wildflower carpeted meadows and scenic vistas of the park's high country. Hurricane Ridge is also the easiest place in the park to see deer, and to be seen by the dozens of marmots which colonize the slopes near Hurricane Ridge Visitor Center. The view of the glaciated Olympic Mountains from the visitor center makes it a perfect place to enjoy lunch in the Snack Bar. Adjoining the Snack Bar is a gift and craft shop.

HURRICANE RIDGE WINTER RECREATION AREA is open week-ends and holiday periods from mid-December to late March. In addition to the Snack Bar, ski and snowshoe rentals are available. Nearby ski lifts, cross country trails and tubing runs make Hurricane Ridge a special recreation spot as well as a place to enjoy the striking winter time scenery.

RAIN FOREST

STORM KING MOTOR LODGE

OLYMPIC NATIONAL PARK is a magnificent unspoiled wilderness of glacier-clad peaks, alpine meadows, cascading streams, unspoiled coastline and virgin forests. From the rugged Pacific Coast to the breathtaking panoramas of mile-high Hurricane Ridge, the opportunity is yours to discover what makes this Park one of the few to have gained international recognition as a United Nations World Heritage Site. Six hundred miles of maintained trails and dozens of roads lead toward the interior of the largest wilderness in the lower 48 states. This spectacular natural scenery is filled with quiet lakes, abundant wild life, unique plants and delicate wild-flowers. Days of exploring can be spent on thrilling alpine drives, beachcombing on the Pacific, or strolling through the intriguing rain forest with its lacy ferns, giant conifers and festoons of mosses. Whether you are after the excitement and challenge of catching the illusive Beards-lee trout from the turquoise blue waters of Lake Crescent or just experiencing an Olympic sunset, you will find the adventure you have been waiting for in Olympic National Park.
