The Oregon Trail Ruts State Historic Site is located just half a mile south of Guernsey, providing visitors with an opportunity to see some of the best-preserved traces of the important westward migration. The impressions left by countless wagon wheels are clearly visible in the soft sandstone. These impressive "Ruts," which extend to depths of over five feet in certain spots, stand as a tribute to the numerous pioneers who journeyed along the California Trail, Oregon Trail, and Mormon Trail between 1841 and 1868. The ruts are easily accessible, requiring just a short walk from the parking lot.
