

Perry Lake State Park - Boathouse and Refectory. - Oklahoma

An interpretation of sturdy park architecture that turns its back on the tight little patterns of precedent to the attainment of considerable distinction. Its long low lines massive dominant chimney, the structurally forthright masonry and the broad stone steps that closely link the structure with the environs—all are factors that inspire admiration. The employment of several levels shows a nice attention to the requirements of site.